Police identify three killed in Hwy. 22 crash

COLLISION RCMP have identified three people killed in a two-vehicle crash on Highway 22 about 15 kilometres north of Highway 3 yesterday.

Staff Sgt. Patrick Webb said weather may have been a factor but the investigation is continuing.

"We can't say for sure how it happened but weather, hail or snow, may have been a factor," Webb said.

A large portion of the highway was shut down for several hours while crews investigated.

Darrel Johnston, 52, of Crowsnest Pass, William Desjardins, 60, and James Hutchinson, 46, both from Fernie were killed in the collision.

HIV/AIDS fundraiser earns $139,000 for research, awareness

MEREDITH O'HARA
for Metro Calgary

Bundled up to fend off the morning's cold and rain, around 600 Calgarians took part yesterday in the city's 15th annual AIDS walk, held to raise awareness and money for the fight against HIV/AIDS.

The walk was also a personal tribute to a friend lost to the virus for Team Love.

"It's to show my kids we can make a difference, that we can take our sadness and our grief and do something with it," said Christina Parker, the team's

"It's to show my kids we can make a difference, that we can take our sadness and grief and do something with it."

Parker's daughter Ashling is seven and was the team's honorary leader.

It's important to raise money "so people don't die," she said.

"We see this event as a primary way for us to engage the Calgary community around HIV prevention work," said Susan Cress, executive director for AIDS Calgary.

Forty-five per cent of the new HIV cases in Alberta over the last three years are in the Calgary area, Cress said, adding about 2,000 people in the Calgary area live with AIDS.

AIDS Calgary beat its fundraising goal this weekend bringing in over $139,000 from the walk.

The money raised goes to the association's outreach programs including educational workshops in the community, Cress said, adding some of the money goes to providing free condoms to encourage safer sex. This year, because of the recession, it was even more important the walk meet its fundraising goal.

"We increasingly have people who have been living with HIV for a long period of time and may not have been needing our services (but) are now needing our services," said Cress.

She said, most of all, it's the community that makes their work possible.

"We really thank Calgarians for their support."

Greenpeace protest fuels worries over security at energy sites

ENVIRONMENT While the oil sands industry tries to calm any frayed nerves after a splashy protest by Greenpeace at a Shell work site in northern Alberta, some analysts say the infiltration of such a huge operation should serve as a warning about the security of energy installations.

If demonstrators can get into the site, so could terrorists intent on doing real damage, says Tom Flanagan, a University of Calgary political science professor and author of a report about groups opposed to development of Western Canada's resource sector.

"It does raise concerns," Flanagan says. "It would be wise to take this as a warning of the importance of reviewing procedures to make sure this kind of thing couldn't happen again."

About two dozen protesters from Canada, the United States and France gained access to Shell's Muskeg River mine site north of Fort McMurray, Alta., last Tuesday, chaining themselves to giant dump trucks and a four-storey-tall shovel that scoops oily sand from the bottom of a massive pit.

After unfurling a banner which read, "Tarsands: Climate Crime" and spending 31 hours at the mine, the protesters left the fenced and gated site without any charges laid.

Reporter off to the races

krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

With the fate of Race City Speedway hanging in the balance, I decided I would take to the asphalt on an all-day race adventure this weekend.

Strapped into the car donning a helmet, gloves and a fire-retardant race suit, I took to the oval track in a beat up Neon with the #15 — roaring head-to-head against seven much more experienced female drivers in the Powder Puff Race.

A last place finish wasn't enough to deter me from doing it again. A crowd of friends were also anxious to feel the speed and excitement of roaring around the track.

And they can, unless the motion to extend the life-line to the race track isn't extended, according to the president of the Calgary Oval Racing Association, Chris Paavola.

"It gives people a place

Metro reporter Krista Sylvester took to the racetrack this weekend at Race City Speedway in the Power Puffs race — experiencing the speed and exhilaration of flying down the track in a controlled environment.

to test the boundaries of the cars in a safe way, instead of street drag racing," he said, adding anyone with a learner's licence and a respect for the rules can race.

Ward 12 Ald. Ric McIver, who has put forward a motion to extend the Race City lease until 2015, agrees.

"These people were racing in a safe and legal environment, and my concern is if that is taken away, will some of them turn to the streets and race illegally?" he said.

The motion goes back to council on Sept. 28.

Where there is smoke ... there is complaints

krista.sylvester@metronews.ca

BYLAW While the number of fire pits complaints has more than doubled from 2007, the city's bylaw boss says education seems to be working.

Bylaw director Bill Bruce said 494 complaints were lodged by the end of August, compared to 407 all of last year and only 217 in 2007, but he says most of those complaints are first-time offenders.

"There are very few repeat offenders. It's actually more a matter of burning things that are inappropriate and once we educate them on the proper ways to have a safe fire, we don't usually see them again," Bruce said.

Bruce thinks the increasing complaints may be the result of the cooler summer or the media coverage, he added.

Calgarian Brenda

Cameron enjoys fire pits and said as long as people are being respectful, she doesn't see the problem.

"If people aren't burning wet wood, the smoke shouldn't be that bad. I know smoke is bad for some people though, but those people should just stay inside."

Bow River plaza home to peace pole

MEREDITH O'HARA

CELEBRATION The City of Calgary has joined communities around the world committed to peace as the city's peace pole was unveiled yesterday in celebration of International Peace Day.

The pole centred in the new peace plaza on the Bow River Pathway is one of as many as 250,000 poles around the world.

The pole, which is located near the site of the planned Peace Bridge, is inscribed with the phrase "may peace prevail on earth" in English, French, Blackfoot and Cree.

"It's another great reminder of the peace we are blessed to have in this city and this country," said Michael Gretton, a member of the peace pole committee.

School rallies to raise money for CIBC Run for the Cure

MEREDITH O'HARA
for Metro Calgary

Students at Senator Patrick Burns School were decked out in pink last week, raising money for their team's donation to the CIBC Run for the Cure.

The team is made up of over 200 students in grades 5 to 9 and the school's team has been the number 1 fundraising school since they started in 1998.

That was the year Donna Logan, the school's physical education teacher, lost her friend Michelle Turner to breast cancer at age 30.

"I thought that (the run) would be something neat to do to remember Michelle," Logan said.

That year they raised $5,000 and had a team of about 100 students.

Since then, Logan has continued to organize a team with her students. It's both good exercise and a good learning experience, she said.

Students from Senator Patrick Burns School rallied to raise money for the CIBC Run for the Cure as a part of Think Pink week.

"We get to have fun and run with our friends. It's good for us to get out there in the community and run the five kilometres."

tres," said Karli Young, a Grade 7 student on the Run for the Cure team for her third year.

"We raised a lot of money for the charity."

Logan said they've probably raised over $100,000 in the 11 years they've participated.

She said there's a lot of school spirit around the run and fundraising efforts, and it's good for her students because "everybody makes the Run for the Cure team."

Big cash for promos, but not flu awareness

Tories spending more on ads touting economic plan

The Conservative government is spending more than five times as many taxpayer dollars on promoting its economic plan as it is on raising public awareness about the flu pandemic.

Television viewers may have noticed the latest feel-good government ads about stimulus spending, including the Conservative-friendly, anti-election pitch: “We can’t stop now,” and “We have to stay on track.”

All the ads direct viewers to a Tory-blue government website that includes more than 40 different photos of Prime Minister Stephen

Harper and refers repeatedly to “the Harper government” — apparently in direct contravention of Treasury Board communications policy.

The TV spots are just the latest $4-million salvo in a $34-million media blitz trumpeting the Conservative's recession-fighting budget. Meanwhile, with public health officials fretting over an onrushing fall flu season, the spread of the H1N1 virus, no television ads are in the works to combat swine flu.

Opposition MPs say the spending disparity in the two ad campaigns simply highlights the obvious:

The government is using public funds to toot its own horn.

“Guys, you’re spending all this money to promote yourselves. Maybe some work on the prevention of H1N1 would be helpful,” Liberal critic Martha Hall-Findlay said.

Sea monster in B.C.?

Researchers 'stunned' by presence of large creature in lake

Brigette Horvath knew she saw something strange in Cameron Lake on Vancouver Island two years ago and a team of researchers say she might be right.

Was it a fish, an eel or some kind of serpent-like creature? She says she didn't know. But Horvath grabbed her camera and managed to fire off one shot before the batteries failed.

The researchers who specialize in looking for so-called cryptozoological creatures — in other words, monsters — spent Saturday on the lake probing the depths with a sonar-like fish finder.

At first, they picked up a couple of large contacts at the bottom of the lake, about 45 metres deep, then something more pronounced on a second pass.

Strange sightings

• There are 41 different lakes in British Columbia where strange animal sightings have been reported, according to John Kirk, president of the British Columbia Scientific Cryptozoology Club.

"Something just went 'ping' on the alarm on the fish finder and we saw this absolutely massive object in the midst of various fish," said John Kirk, president of the British Columbia Scientific Cryptozoology Club.

They made four more passes and the contact held stable, making it unlikely that it was a school of fish, which tend to scatter eventually, Kirk said.

"We were quite stunned that there was something that big in the lake and it was in about 60 feet of water, less than 30 yards from shore, it was quite amazing," he said.

Unfortunately, Kirk said the team accidentally lost its underwater camera and was unable to explore further.

Because the weather will deteriorate in the fall and winter, another search will have to wait until next year, he added.

But the team has narrowed the possibilities.

"Maybe it's a sturgeon, maybe it's a giant sterile eel ... it could be a massive type of salamander," Kirk said.

"Or it could be something that we're completely unaware of at this point." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's Olympic pavilion won't promote provinces, says minister

VANCOUVER Canada's $10-million pavilion promoting this country during the 2010 Vancouver Olympics will be too broad to include the provinces, a federal cabinet minister said yesterday, explaining why Ottawa turned down a request from British Columbia to combine efforts.

"It's really important that we have our own pavilion," Gary Lunn, the federal minister of state for sport, said.

"British Columbia, their pavilion is going to be promoting British Columbia, as it should, but we have a responsibility to promote the entire country, all of Canada."

Canada's display will promote everything from tourism to business and investment opportunities in the country, and give visitors a chance to meet Canadian athletes.

'Prince of pot' prepares for incarceration

KRISTEN THOMPSON

Marc Emery says he's spending his last few days of freedom tying up loose ends with his business before being sent south of the border to begin serving a drugs-related sentence.

"You typically miss fresh air and good food, two things that are not available inside federal prisons," said Emery.

This will be his second time behind bars after spending three months in a Saskatoon jail in 2004.

On Sept. 28, Vancouver's Prince of Pot will be shipped to the United States and imprisoned for anywhere from a year to 15 years for selling marijuana seeds online.

He said around 120 parties and rallies were held in major cities around the world, including New York City, Washington, D.C., and Dublin, Ireland, on Saturday

Marc Emery hugs his wife, Jodie, in their downtown Vancouver apartment yesterday.

The event outside the Vancouver Art Gallery drew around 400 people.

"Jodie is alternately crushed and ... (moved) by the tributes," Emery said of his wife, who added that the hardest part for her will be waking up alone.

"But I'll be working, keeping busy (working at Emery's Cannabis Culture Headquarters)," said Jodie.

"That's the key to not going nuts," said Marc. "Otherwise you just spend the whole time sentimentalizing."

Emery said he plans to learn French and Spanish in prison, and will write his memoir.

Taser death inquiry resumes tomorrow

VANCOUVER The public inquiry into Robert Dziekanski's death resumes tomorrow with RCMP brass being asked to explain the explosive email that stalled proceedings three months ago.

The four officers who confronted the Polish immigrant at Vancouver's airport have testified that they never uttered a word — not about the Taser or anything else — as they left their detachment to respond to a report of an agitated man throwing furniture.

Yet, as closing arguments were set to begin, federal government lawyer Helen Roberts revealed an internal email from Chief Supt. Dick Bent that appears to contradict that testimony.

Walter Kosteckyj, the lawyer for Dziekanski's mother, said the controversial email raised serious questions that won't be easily explained away.

"When I take a look at how quickly it (the Taser) was used, I have a hard time believing that it wasn't discussed," said Kosteckyj.

VIRGINIA A man who rapped about the thrill of killing remained behind bars yesterday, charged with killing a pastor and likely to face charges in the deaths of three others. Police on Saturday charged Richard Alden Samuel McCroskey III with first-degree murder. The aspiring rapper in the horrorcore genre, which sets violent lyrics to hip-hop beats, was found sleeping in the baggage area of Richmond airport as he waited for a flight.

MEXICO CITY Police started randomly checking for guns in the city's 175 subway stations after a man opened fire in a station, killing two and injuring eight.

COLORADO The arrest of a man on charges related to a terror investigation reveals a murky plot that involved him allegedly receiving explosives training

Sarkozy trial begins

French president faces off against political foe

Two men who reached the pinnacle of French politics after a career-long battle stand at the heart of a slander trial opening in Paris today.

Nicolas Sarkozy says Dominique de Villepin was involved in a smear campaign known as the Clearstream affair designed to keep Sarkozy from winning France's top job in 2007 elections.

The unusual, complicated saga dates back to a mysterious list claiming to show clients with secret accounts with Luxembourg clearing house Clearstream, including Sarkozy and other leading French political and business figures. The accounts were purportedly created to hold bribes from a 1991 sale of warships to Taiwan, among other shady income. About 20 witnesses are set to testify during the trial, which will run through Oct. 21.

Still standing after another year

HineSight

Anne Hines

metronews.ca/hinesight

Yes, readers, it's time once again for our annual "My life in review." Some people choose New Year's Day to stop to take stock, but if you ask me, there are two times you should never think about how life is going: a) when you're nursing a hangover; and b) when it's mid-winter in Canada. Which, frankly, feel pretty much the same.

Finances: My local banker has completed a thorough assessment of my financial position and says she's confident that I can retire on my 65th birthday and live in complete comfort. Just so long as I get hit by a meteor the day after. At the moment, my retirement savings are confined to whatever loose change is under the couch cushions. Obviously, it's time for me to adopt a clear, effective financial strategy and stick with it. The strategy I've decided on is called "denial." So, for "finances" I'm giving myself a C this year. It stands for "Could stand a little help."

Love/Relationships: Some insist that "long-term relationship" is an oxymoron. Much like "bad sex" or "too much coffee." As my partner, Liz, and I head into our second decade together,

SunnySide

I've come to believe there are upsides and downsides to long-term relationships. The upside is living with someone who knows exactly what you're like. The downside is ... pretty much the same thing. For love/relationships, I'm giving myself a G. It stands for "Grateful."

Work/career: This year, I achieved what represents as total success in today's job market: I had one. Still, many of us hope for more. Buddha said, "Success is not happiness. Happiness is success. If you are doing what you love, you are successful." My version goes: "Paying the hydro bill is not happiness. But it helps." The perfect job is one that addresses both your dreams and your debt. I'm giving myself a B for career. It means, "Still a believer."

Wisdom: Liz's rule for life is, "Act with kindness and care, everywhere and with everyone. Except, of course, when you're playing hockey." I learned two important things this year. First, when the makers of allergy medication suggest you not take more than the recommended dosage, there really is a reason for this. And the only way to change your life is to change yourself.

Overall? I'm giving myself an A. It stands for "Absolutely Still Standing." At least for another year.

Going in circles can have its benefits

InTransit

Adrienne Beattie

metronews.ca/intransit

With the southwest ring road leg indefinitely broken, it's refreshing to see the city has bounced back with alternate plans set for construction in the next month.

To ease Glenmore Trail and 37th Street congestion, eastbound traffic will no longer be able to make a left turn onto 37th Street. Instead, those heading eastbound will be directed south on 37th Street where they'll go through a roundabout before heading northbound on 37th Street. This rerouting will add 20 seconds of movement for Glenmore traffic.

The move will temporarily ease congestion at a cost of $250,000. Long term, the plan is to construct a $40-million interchange.

As with any change, criticism of the temporary roundabout has been flowing with some wanting the interchange to go ahead straight away and others claiming the roundabout will be too confusing.

As a previous resident of McKenzie Towne, where moving through a roundabout is the only way to get in or out of the community, I'm familiar with roundabout rumblings that usually end with a snide remark about Europeans.

Indeed, roundabouts are common in Europe and they're showing up more close to home, too — but for good reason. Roundabouts, or traffic circles, have many benefits.

They are generally more economical to construct and maintain because of the absence of traffic signals; the central islands add greenspace to what would otherwise be a concrete intersection; they calm traffic due to the slower speeds needed to navigate around the circle; traffic delays, idling and air pollution are reduced because traffic is allowed to flow freely without stopping.

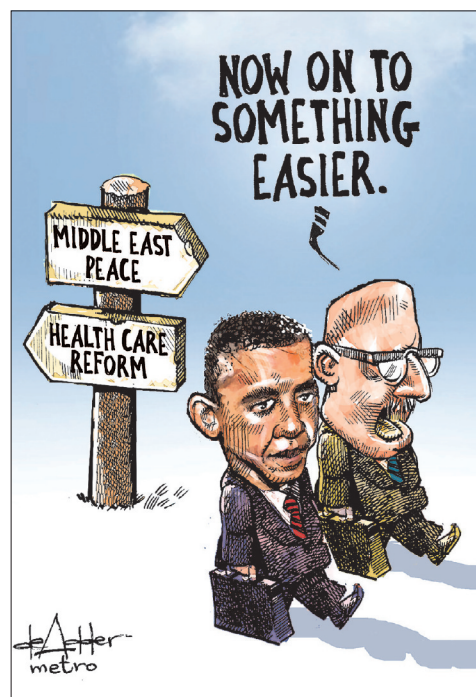

Carolyn Cruik, a former Calgarian who's since lived in New York City, thinks traffic circles are efficient and refers to the Place Charles de Gaulle as "controlled chaos." Cruik, who walks more than she drives, has found roundabouts easy to get used to and thinks Calgarians can adjust as well.

Navigating a traffic circle is quite simple, really. Signal to enter, yield to traffic already in the circle and drive in. Once in, circulate around counter-clockwise to the right of the centre island. To exit, signal, move to the right lane and merge out.

This temporary, relatively low cost, congestion-easing solution will be complete mid-October and soon enough, more Calgarians will adjust to the ways of the roundabout.

Ruling stinks for eBay

A French court has found eBay responsible for brand counterfeiting and ordered the online marketplace operator to pay the luxury group LVMH euro80,000 (C$126,000) compensation for damages caused to famous perfume brands like Christian Dior and Kenzo. The Paris-based LVMH SA conglomerate sued eBay Inc., accusing the San Jose, Calif.-based company of using its brands as keywords in Internet searches. Scammers need more than stiff sentences say victims

Stiffer sentences for white-collar criminals promised by the federal government are only a first step in the battle against Ponzi and other financial scams that seem to grab headlines almost daily, victims say.

They say there's still a crying need for public education, proper enforcement and industry regulation with teeth to combat crimes that can be as devastating for victims as any serious assault.

"It's just as serious or violent or other crime," said Joey Davis of Montreal whose mother lost $200,000 to an alleged fraud by investment dealer Earl Jones. "It's emotionally violent, it's mentally violent."

On Tuesday, representatives of nine victims groups met Prime Minister Stephen Harper to complain about the anemic fight against white-collar crimes such as Ponzi schemes that have seen thousands of small-time investors defrauded.

Following the meeting with Harper, Justice Minister Rob Nicholson promised legislation this fall that would impose mandatory minimum jail terms, longer sentences and confiscation of assets. He gave no details, but said the government was also planning to change the rule that allows white-collar criminals to get parole after serving just one-sixth of their sentence.

Legal battle brewing over beer images

There's a legal brawl brewing over the use of iconic mountain images in beer ads.

Molson Coors Brewing Company has launched a multimillion-dollar lawsuit in federal court against Labatt's, saying the mountain imagery on their new ads for Labatt's Kokanee beer infringes on the copyrighted images Molson uses on some of their products.

The brewery says the new Kokanee graphic looks too much like the one portrayed in the background of Coors Light products, and is seeking $10 million in damages.

But Jamie Humphries, marketing director for Kokanee, said the lawsuit came as a surprise because the mountains have been part of the Kokanee brand for four decades.

Humphries says the new graphic is the same Kokanee Glacier that the beer is named after.

He says the brewery is confident they're on the higher legal ground.

Report says protectionism rampant

TRADE The world's major powers are repeatedly breaking their pledges not to erect trade barriers, and there is no sign the "protectionist juggernaut" will ease as countries recover from the global downturn, an influential monitoring organization

Since first taking a no-protectionism vow at a summit meeting last November, the world's 20 major economies have been responsible for as many as 121 "blatantly protectionist" measures.

Wireless player Globalive faces CRTC hearing

COMMUNICATIONS New wireless player Globalive will have to show that it's a Canadian-controlled company at a CRTC hearing where the country's big three carriers will challenge its ownership structure this week.

Globalive Wireless is building its network in five Canadian cities and will offer cell-phone services late this year or early 2010 with the brand name, Wind.

"We are moving full speed ahead," said Anthony Lacavera, chairman and CEO of parent company Globalive Holdings.

It's looking to be Canada's fourth major wireless carrier, with a presence across the country except for Quebec.

The two-day hearing begins Wednesday at the CRTC offices in Gatineau, Que. Rogers Wireless, Telus and Bell Mobility will challenge the Canadianess of the company at the hearing.

"We find virtually nothing Canadian in this company," said Michael Hennessy, senior vice-president of regulatory and government affairs for Telus.

Egypt-based telecom company Orascom owns 65 per cent of parent company Globalive Holdings, a structure accepted by Industry Canada when Globalive's licence was granted in March. Lacavera said most of the company's board of directors are Canadian.

Used cars getting pricier

AUTO MARKET Increasing demand and plummeting supply have pushed used car prices in Canada steadily higher since last summer, a trend that is only expected to continue over the coming years, industry players say.

The business manager of an independent used-car dealership in Oshawa, Ont. said that he was able to buy a "decent," three- or four-year-old van at auction for $6,000 last year. The same van would cost him $7,000 today.

Business in brief

INTERNET The head of the FCC plans to propose new rules that would prohibit Internet service providers from interfering with the free flow of information and certain applications over their networks, an official at the agency said Saturday.

The Federal Communications Commission chairman, Julius Genachowski, will announce the proposed rules in a speech Monday at the Brookings Institution, a Washington think-tank, the official said on condition of anonymity because news of the announcement had not been formally released. The proposals would uphold a pledge Barack Obama made during the presidential campaign to support Internet neutrality—the equal treatment of Internet traffic. That would bar Internet service providers such as Verizon Communications Inc., Comcast Corp. or AT&T Inc., from slowing or blocking certain services or content flowing through their vast networks.

10-year low for gas profit

Canada's firms to make 60% less in 2009, says think tank

Canada's natural gas producers will reap their lowest profits in a decade this year, the Conference Board of Canada predicted Friday, as prices remain stubbornly below what's needed to entice companies to drill.

The Ottawa-based economics think-tank said the gas industry's overall profits will total just $2.3 billion this year, down 60 per cent from last year and the lowest since 1999.

It also says output by Canadian gas producers will be down five per cent in 2009 from last year's level, which was 5.2 per cent below 2007 output.

"So much has changed for the natural gas industry in just one year," said Todd Crawford, an economist with the board.

"Last year, revenues more than doubled over the first six months as gas prices skyrocketed. Now, low prices and the tough credit conditions have created a perfect storm that sent drilling activity in Canada tumbling this year."

Canada's junior oil and gas sector has been hit particularly hard, since the lion's share of its activities are focused around natural gas, as opposed to more lucrative oil developments.

"I think natural gas producers are certainly hoping we're bumping along the bottom right now in terms of the price cycle," said Gary Leach, executive director of the Small Explorers and Producers Association of Canada.

"The big question is at what pace will natural gas prices recover."

Europe wants activity-based bonuses: French minister

FINANCE Europe is not seeking ceilings on banker bonuses but will urge G20 leaders to limit payouts by linking them to performance, France's finance minister said in an interview published yesterday.

"Europe is proposing a limit on the bonuses as a per centage of activity," Christine Lagarde is quoted in the Journal du Dimanche as saying. She did not elaborate.

"No one talked about a ceiling figure" on bonuses, she is quoted as saying. "Fixing a sum in euros or in dollars would have no sense, because living standards are different from one country to another and exchange rates vary

The U.S. and Britain have shied away from such a cap. Lagarde predicted it would be "very hard" to bring the Americans on board to global bonus rules at the G20 summit.

"It's good long-term economic policy for the people of Canada," Flaherty said in Brampton, Ont., on Friday,

Kids have the most to lose

EarthTones

Sophia Dore & Andrew Laursen

metronews.ca/earthtones

Our friend's little girl, Joelle, is sick in the hospital. Late at night, as we rock our baby to sleep, we think of what our friends are going through and our hearts ache for them. Though Joelle's illness is not caused by environmental factors, it got us thinking about how vulnerable millions of children are to the hazards of this dirty world.

Fetuses and young children are more vulnerable because their biological defences are still forming, and they are can't detoxify harmful substances and repair damage the way adults can. Children also eat more food, drink more liquids, and breathe more air than adults on a pound-for-pound basis.

The saying goes that a child eats a peck of dirt, but what if that dirt contains harmful chemicals such as pesticides, dirty air from urban areas and roads, mercury or flame retardants? Children are in a critical period of development, and toxic exposures can lead to a far-ranging number of health issues.

Pesticides can cause low birth weights, developmental delays, and attentional and behavioural disorders. Air pollutants have contributed to the epidemic of childhood asthma, while mercury and flame retardants such as PCBs and PDBEs can end up in our food through polluted waterways. Fetal and childhood exposure to these chemicals can affect neurological development.

A major factor in kids' exposures to these pollutants is the income bracket they happen to be born into. Lower income children tend to live closer to industrial areas, highways, and in older buildings. They and their mothers may also consume lower quality food that may be more subject to contamination.

We owe it to these kids to clean up our act and give them clean air to breathe and clean food (and dirt) to eat. Get well soon Joelle.

Sophia Dore is an environmental scientist with Conestoga-Rovers & Associates. Andrew Laursen is an assistant professor at Ryerson University; earthtones.metro@gmail.com.

Wake up Calgary

- Scotchman's Hill, 2101 Salisbury St. SE, 12:18 p.m.
- Stephen Harper's constituency office, 1600 - 90th Ave. SW, 10 a.m.

You could spend today's lunch hour in a food court, or you could make a massive political statement.

Today is the Global Climate Wake-Up Call, an international day of action that will prompt thousands of citizens to come together for five-minute flash mobs — all in the hopes of grabbing the attentions of world leaders ahead of a Climate Change Conference in Copenhagen this December.

Greg Boyle is the organizer of today's Parliament Hill Wake-Up Call in Ottawa, which will include participants forming a human clock to show "we are running out of time."

"Global leaders have only three months to get their act together and sign a strong climate treaty in Copenhagen," Boyle explains via email. "We need to show the government of Canada that we are sick of their inaction."

Julia Morgan was driven to organize a Wake-Up Call in Toronto after losing sleep over climate change: "That sounds a bit crazy, I realize ... I realized later that climate change is really not that external and it's really not that far away."

She's encouraging participants to make noise and wear business attire to symbolize that climate change is everyone's business.

Stamps make a deal

Calgary lands receivers Bryant and Franklin from Bombers for trio

The Calgary Stampeders acquired receivers Romby Bryant and Arjei Franklin from the Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a blockbuster deal yesterday for receivers Jabari Arthur and Titus Ryan, plus defensive lineman Odell Willis.

Calgary also gets a third-round pick in 2010 and the rights to an unnamed negotiation-list player, while fourth and sixth round picks in 2010 went to Winnipeg.

The trade was announced shortly after Winnipeg was thumped 33-14 in Montreal. The defending Grey Cup champion Stampeders are also struggling as they dropped to 6-5 with a 24-17 loss to

"Romby is a player we've been following for some time and we really like what he brings to the table."

Hamilton on Friday night.

"Romby is a player we've been following for some time and we really like what he brings to the table," Stampeders head coach-GM John Hufnagel said in a release. "He has good speed, size and he has proven to be very productive in the CFL. ...

"Titus and Jabari are both good, young receivers with potential, but with our situation, we need someone who can come in and play for us right away."

A trade likely became necessary for Calgary after losing veteran receiver Ryan Thelwell for the season with a torn Achilles tendon he suffered in Friday's game versus Hamilton.

Bryant, 29, is in his second CFL season and has 20 catches for 232 yards and no touchdowns through 11 games. Last season, the six-foot-one 190-pound receiver led the Bombers with 1,205 yards and nine touchdowns on 65 receptions.

Fourth-year pro Franklin, 27, has missed most of this season with an ankle injury and has five catches for 53 yards. The Toronto native had career highs of 52 catches and 620 yards in 2008.

Arthur, a Montreal native, joined the Stampeders after he was cut by the Kansas City Chiefs last August and shared in Calgary's Grey Cup victory over the Alouettes at Olympic Stadium.

Willis and Ryan, both Americans, were in their first season with Calgary. The six-foot-two 265-pound Willis has six sacks.

Flames win, Fleury notches pair of points

NHL RESULT

Florida 2 Calgary 5

HOCKEY Curtis Glencross scored and added three assists to lead the Calgary Flames to a 5-2 win over the Florida Panthers in NHL pre-season action last night.

Playing in his first game against his former team, Olli Jokinen had a goal and two assists to give him six points in just two exhibition contests for the Flames (2-2).

In his second game for the Flames on a free-agent tryout, Theoren Fleury chipped in with a goal and an assist, much to the delight of the 19,289 fans in attendance at the Pengrowth Saddledome who chanted his name in appreciation.

Jarome Iginla and Daymond Langkow also had a goal and an assist each, while goalie Miikka Kiprusoff stopped 11 of 12 shots he faced in two periods of action to record the win. Leland Irving turned aside 13 of 14 shots he faced in the third period.

David Booth and Stephen Weiss scored for the Panthers (2-3-0), who were playing their fifth game in six nights on the road against a Canadian opponent. Vokoun made 31 saves during the setback.

The Flames had a great chance to take an early lead when Langkow and

Theoren Fleury

Robyn Regehr broke into the Florida zone on a two-on-one. Regehr directed a pass from Langkow on net, but Vokoun stacked his pads to thwart the scoring chance.

Booth opened the scoring at 5:19 of the first period on Florida's first shot of the game. Skating towards the net on his left wing, Booth took a pass from Scott Timmins and wired a low shot into the far corner past Kiprusoff.

An electrifying profession

Lightning expert dishes on his studies of the CN Tower, which gets struck 100 times a year

OddJobs

Diane Peters

Metronews.ca/oddjobs

Lightning can strike more than once in the same spot. Ali Hussein has built a career on this little known truth. He's been measuring lightning strikes on Toronto's CN Tower for 20 years. Since it hits the tower about 100 times a year, there's lots to study.

Originally from Egypt, Hussein studied electrical engineering there. He got a scholarship to study abroad at the University of Toronto and came to Canada to do his PhD in electromagnetics.

When he finished in 1979, he worked in Saudi Arabia doing research for two years, then decided to immigrate back to Canada, since things were so troubled politically in the Middle East. (He had to pay back his scholarship to the Egyptian government.)

By then, Cold War was in full swing and he found work with Bell Northern, studying electromagnetic pulses. There was a concern, back then, that a pulse could be used to disrupt communications as part of an attack.

But he missed academia. "My best field is teaching and research," says Hussein. He got a position at Ryerson and the University of Toronto, and found himself working with Wasil Janischewsky, who had been measuring lightning strikes on the CN Tower since 1988.

He's now retired and Hussein is in charge of getting new equipment, organizing grad students to organize the data collected from the tower, writing academic papers and attending conferences — along with his teaching duties at Ryerson.

When Hussein first started measuring lightning, he and grad students would visit the CN Tower late at night, when there was little telecommunications activity so things could be shut down, and would climb up inside the tower above its highest observation deck. They'd scale ladders up into the needle-like tip of the tower to check on their equipment.

Now, the rules have changed and the tower staff do all the maintenance. Right now, Hussein has an electromagnetic measurement system, a GPS (which helps them not measure position, but the time of the lightning), a video camera and a digital camera — which takes 1,000 pictures per second — up in the tower.

Hussein's published data has helped further the understanding of lightning.

The Lowdown

Job title: Lightning expert and researcher

Salary: About $100,000

Education/training: PhD in electrical engineering or electromagnetics

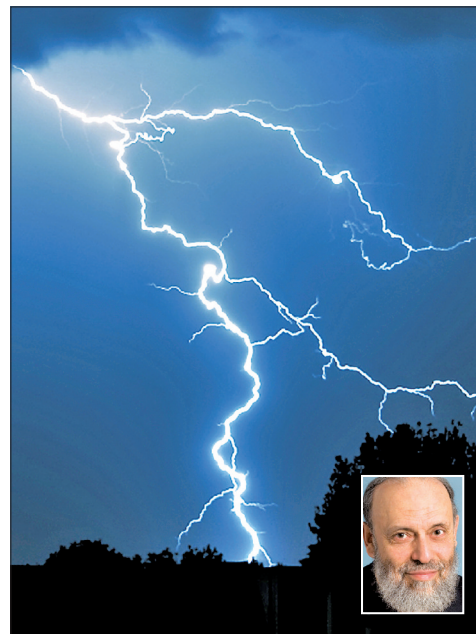

Best Part of the Job: "I really like teaching. Ever since I started working with the CN Tower my love of research has been competing with my original love for teaching."

Worst Part of the Job: "Being busy. That's why none of my six children decided to go into engineering."

This information is useful not just for academics, but for engineers who need to know how lightning-safe they need to build things.

And Hussein also says it's part of his job to help educate the public about lightning safety. "Lightning is fascinating, but it's also dangerous."

Diane Peters once hawked magic pens at the Canadian National Exhibition. She's now a writer and part-time journalism instructor.

PAYCHEQUE TO PAYCHEQUE According to a recent survey by the Canadian Payroll Association, almost two-thirds of Canadian workers are living paycheck to paycheck. Of the 2,800 employees from across Canada who were interviewed for the survey, 45 per cent of respondents aged 18 to 34, said that having one paycheck delayed would mean they couldn't make ends meet. Of the respondents who were single parents, 72 per cent said they would be pressed to make ends meet if one paycheck were delayed. Nearly two thirds of respondents also wanted higher wages instead of better health benefits and education funding. UNIVERSITY ENROLMENT A recent report by the Higher Education Quality Council of Ontario (HEQCO) states that students in low-income neighbourhoods are 13 per cent less likely to apply to university than their peers in high-income neighbourhoods. The report attributes this to the deregulation of tuition rates during the 1990s. It also found that students living in rural areas are less likely to apply to university, while those living close to a university were more likely to apply, as were students who attended Catholic schools.

ART AS A CAREER? The Ontario Universities' Application Centre has released a report showing enrolment of first year students from Ontario secondary schools at the Ontario College of Art & Design has increased by 30 per cent over the past year, while enrolment of out-of-province students has increased by 14 per cent this year.

Being at the top does not stop harassment

MAT LECOMPTE
for Metro Canada

Sometimes having a top-notch job can come at heavy price. Especially if you're not part of the boys' club.

It's no secret that sexual harassment in the workplace exists, but what is surprising is where it's directed. A recent Globe and Mail article revealed that almost 50 per cent of women in positions of power reported experiencing sexual harassment in the workplace — a number much higher than those in non-management positions.

"This makes sense in terms of what we know," said Louise Ripley, York University professor of Business and Women's Studies, "that power is at the root of the harassment. It's not about sex."

Ripley, who teaches a Gender Issues and Management course, told Metro that men often respond to women in power by trying to bring them down. Doing so, she says, is an attempt to reduce their power and establish dominance and boundaries in the workplace. Sexuality is often the approach men take to stake out their position.

Almost 50 per cent of women in positions of power reported experiencing sexual harassment in the workplace.

It's true, of course, that it's not just women in managerial positions who face harassment. It's just a different kind. The harassment faced by women in higher positions is more subtle, she says, that is not overtly sexual in nature.

She says that women in non-managerial positions do not provide as much of a power threat to male employees, so they are less susceptible to certain types of harassment. However when they are subject to harassment, support systems are thin.

"Women at the lowest level can be threatened without repercussion," Ripley explained.

The lack of repercussion comes from limited support systems. For example, there are often not many women in power for them to turn to help or advice.

Ripley, however, maintains a positive outlook for the situations women face in the workplace at all levels of employment. As time passes and more men and women work together in university courses and other areas, they are able to form relationships based on respect and understanding, she said.

She also mentioned that as increasing numbers of women are employed in management positions it becomes less of a novelty, which should reduce the harassment levels women are currently exposed to.

Ten acts vying for prestigious Polaris Music Prize tonight

It's common for artists to be gracious when it comes to accepting award nominations, but when Hey Rosetta! was shortlisted for the Polaris Music Prize this year, they took their humility a step further.

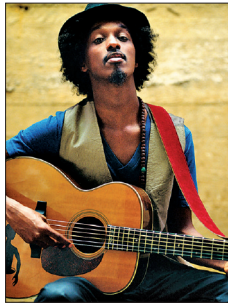

The St. John's, N.L., band's frontman Tim Baker said he was shocked because he didn't think their record was "worthy."

"I guess we just never thought of ourselves in that sort of league — the real recording artists that really kind of push the boundaries, artistically," Baker said. Not long ago it might have seemed a bit strange for a band to feel unworthy of the prize, but this is the year that a class of Polaris veterans has emerged.

For the first time in the award's four-year history this year's short list includes artists who have been nominated before.

Of the 10 bands or artists vying for the $20,000 prize, to be handed out at a Toronto gala tonight, six have been shortlisted before, including 2007 winners Patrick Watson.

Halifax singer/songwriter Joel Plaskett, up for his ambitious triple album Three, Toronto new-wave band Metric, Toronto hip-hop artist K'naan, Montreal francophone indie-rockers Malajube and Calgary indie pop experimentalist Chad VanGaal are the other artists shortlisted a second time for the prize, which is awarded by a jury of music journalists and based strict-

Series repeat wins

Mad Men and 30 Rock tops again at Emmy Awards

Mad Men and 30 Rock led a pack of Emmy winners who successfully defended their titles at Sunday's show, but the snappy ceremony and a star turn by host Neil Patrick Harris made the evening far from a rerun.

AMC's glossy 1960s Madison Avenue saga Mad Men, which last year became the first basic cable show to win a top series award, won the best drama trophy for a second time.

"It is an amazing time to work in TV," said Mad Men creator Matthew Weiner. "And, I know that everything is changing, but I'm not afraid of it because I feel like all these different media is just more choice and more entertainment. It's better for the viewers in the end and I'm glad to be a part of it."

NBC's 30 Rock, a satirical take on life inside a TV variety show, was honoured for the third time as best comedy series, while star Alec Baldwin won his second award as best comedy actor.

"We want to thank our friends at NBC for keeping us on the air ... even though we are so much more expensive than a talk show," said 30 Rock creator and star Tina Fey, referring to Jay Leno's new daily prime-time comedy show, which NBC likes to note is cheaper to produce than a scripted series.

Glenn Close's performance as a ruthless trial attorney on Damages and Bryan Cranston's turn as a meth-making, cancer-stricken teacher on Breaking Bad were honoured with the top drama series acting Emmys, the second consecutive trophies for both.

Michael Emerson, who plays the cruelly devious

Ben on Lost, and Cherry Jones, the stalwart U.S. president on 24, were honoured as best supporting actors in drama series.

Toni Collette of Showtime's United States of Tara was honoured as best lead actress in a comedy series for her role as a mother with multiple personalities.

Collette's victory deprived Fey of 30 Rock of winning a second consecutive award in the category. But Fey took the stage a few moments later to

Star crosses over

Juliette Lewis focuses on career in music

BRYAN BORZYKOWSKI
for Metro Canada

The majority of people know Juliette Lewis as an accomplished actress — she starred in Natural Born Killers among other films — but these days she wants to be recognized for another career — music.

With Lewis' new album, Terra Incognita, the movie star has seemingly crossed the threshold from musician-wanabee into bona fide artist; she's barely an actor now. At least that's how she looks at it.

"Music has been my whole life," she says on the phone from Philadelphia. "I hadn't done a movie in four years until recently. I'm much more involved in my music."

The change from screen siren to songwriter didn't come over night — this is Lewis' fourth record (and first without backing band The Licks), but only now does it actually appear as if

"Terra Incognita is a Latin phrase for unknown territory and that's where I wanted to go musically, physically and emotionally. It's a metaphor for the journey I am about to take."

she's a real musician.

A big reason for that is her new sound. The frantic rockers, which always seemed a bit too thrown together, are gone. In their place are far more polished sounds. There are still plenty of distorted guitars and upbeat tracks, but there's also Janis Joplin-like blues (Ghosts) and the David Bowie sounding Suicide Dive Bombers.

Lewis is well aware of the new musical direction; she says this album marks the first time she's ever really paid attention to songwriting.

"My first agenda was all about the live show," she explains. "But now I real feel like I've come into my own musically. I never cared if people knew me from my films, or if they thought they'd be seeing a joke. Whatever got them in the room and I'd give people a really exciting live show.

"When I came off the road I had a moment to reflect and say holy s I did it," she continues. "I'm now good for more than a handful of tickets all over the world, so that means I can really lock in and make a record full of feeling, something more vulnerable than ever and people will still show up."

There's no doubt that Terra Incognita has more feeling. On the aggressive Fantasy Bar she lambastes Hollywood life; the title track sees her singing about a failed relationship. And while it's still unclear just how this fresh direction will work for her, at least she tried something new.

"I really wanted to challenge myself," she says. "Terra Incognita is a Latin phrase for unknown territory and that's where I wanted to go musically, physically and emotionally. It's a metaphor for the journey I am about to take."

McCartney focuses on fashionable athletic wear

Breathable, lightweight fabrics aimed for comfort

Stella McCartney's sports-wear franchise is saddling up to take on the cycling world.

The British designer may be better known for her tops and dresses, but her active-wear "adidas by Stella McCartney" concept has been going strong since 2005.

In addition to her pre-existing ranges devoted to yoga, tennis, golf and swim, McCartney is now working to keep cyclists, runners and triathletes looking sharp on the track and in the pool. The sports apparel on display yesterday at London's Somerset House was made from lightweight, breathable fabrics designed with comfort — and perspiration — in mind.

Mesh was nearly everywhere: In wide loops lining the side of a gym shoe or tightly wound into a poly-cotton collared golf shirt.

"It's moisture management," explained Emma Willey, who works for adidas by Stella McCartney. "When you come out after eight hours on the golf course, you want to be smelling fresh."

McCartney kept to an understated style, with a pair of small red running shorts and a shiny, tinfoil-like pool blue jacket being among the flashiest pieces in an otherwise neutral-colored collection. Zebra print was pervasive.

McCartney says she tries to keep her materials environmentally friendly and ethically sourced. Apparel on display included clothes constructed out of organic cotton and recycled polyester, and shoes built with recycled rubber and wood pulp insoles.

Yesterday, the third day of London Fashion Week, also featured shows by Betty Jackson, Nicole Farhi, Jasper Conran, and British fashion icon Vivienne Westwood. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nigeria pulls summer blockbuster from theatres

FILM One of the summer's biggest blockbusters — a sci-fi morality tale about aliens and apartheid — is not welcome in Nigeria because of its portrayal of Nigerians as gangsters and cannibals, Nigeria's information minister said Saturday.

Information Minister Dora Akunyili has asked movie houses in the capital of Abuja to stop screening District 9 because the movie makes Nigerians look bad.

"We have directed that they should stop public screening of the film," she said. "We are not happy about it because it portrays Nigeria in bad light."

Akunyili said she has asked Sony for an apology and wants them to edit out references to Nigeria and to the name of the main Nigerian gangster Obesandjo, whose name closely resembles that of former Nigerian president Olusegun Obasanjo.

"We have written to the producer and distributor of the film, Sony Entertainment, expressing our displeasure and demanded an apology," she said.

Priest haunted by past in Bishop's Man

The Bishop's Man

Author: Linden MacIntyre
Publisher: Random House
Canada
Price: $32 (Hardcover)

Broadcaster Linden MacIntyre enters the secretive world of domestic religious scandal in The Bishop's Man. In Cape Breton, N.S., Father Duncan MacAskill has acquired nicknames like "Purificator" from Catholic priests for helping the bishop conceal church controversy and get rid of faltering fathers. When the '90s media spotlight focuses on sexual charges against the church, MacIntyre is sent to a remote parish near where he was raised to escape vilification. But, with isolation comes introspection, as MacIntyre evaluates his deeds and is forced to face his imperfections when he falls for a soul-searching woman and encounters a potential victim of the indiscretions he's covered up his whole life.

The Long Shot

Author: Katie Kitamura
Publisher: Free Press
Price: $18.99 (Paperback)

Four years ago, when Cal fought the renowned mixed martial arts (MMA) star Rivera, he was pushed to his ultimate physical limit. Now, he's Mexico-bound with his faithful trainer Riley, preparing to step into the ring with Rivera for a second round. But first, both coach and fighter must reconcile their apprehensions and embrace the mindset and mettle necessary for Cal to come out on top. Journalist Katie Kitamura turns her experience reporting on MMA into a rigorous fictional account. BRIAN COULTON

Precious, Cairo nab wins

A raw film about an abused teen named Precious won the audience choice award on the last day of the Toronto International Film Festival on Saturday, stoking predictions that the harrowing, Oprah Winfrey-backed tale is Oscar-bound.

Precious: Based on the Novel Push by Sapphire, snagged the coveted award at a luncheon that also named Cairo Time, from Toronto director Ruba Nadda, the best Canadian feature.

The win for Precious follows a sensational debut earlier this year at Sundance, where the film claimed the grand jury and audience awards.

Piers Handling, co-director of the Toronto festival, said the movie's remarkable success is not unlike last year's surprise sensation, Slumdog Millionaire.

"I think people want to see real stories about real people who are being tested in some kind of way and at the end of the day, hopefully, come out at ahead of the game," said Handling.

The film revolves around

Laurie May, co-president of Maple Pictures, accepts the People's Choice Award on behalf of Lee Daniels for the film Precious: Based on the Novel Push by Sapphire on Saturday.

an obese ghetto teen who has been impregnated for the second time by her father, and stars Gabourey (Gabby) Sidibe, Mo'Nique, Lenny Kravitz and Mariah Carey. Tyler Perry and Winfrey serve as executive producers.

"You feel for her — she's obviously a figure of great sympathy and at the end of the day she manages to overcome them, so it's a perfect film I think to have come out of the festival," Handling said of the film's downtrodden heroine.

"As I think about it, it probably bears a lot of resemblance to last year's Slumdog Millionaire."

Slumdog Millionaire, an indie film set in the slums of Mumbai, came from virtually nowhere to claim the audience choice award in Toronto and went on to sweep the big categories at the Oscars.

The Toronto award includes a $15,000 cash prize, which was accepted on Precious's behalf by Laurie May, co-president of Maple Pictures.

"So far, we're two for two," boasted May, referring to the two-time audience win.

A free screening was held later that night in Toronto. Precious is set to be released in Canada on Nov. 20.

Other prizes handed out Saturday included a $15,000 award for best Canadian first feature film, which went to Quebec's Alexandre Franchi for The Wild Hunt, set in the fantasy-reality of a large role-playing game. The $10,000 award for best Canadian short film went to Pedro Pires for Danse Macabre, which was based on a concept by Robert Lepage.

Nadda, who gets $30,000 as part of the best Canadian feature prize for Cairo Time, said her film very nearly didn't get made.

She noted that roughly $1.5 million in funding fell through just two weeks before filming was to start in Egypt. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Diana Krall: Live in Rio

The British Columbia-born jazz singer takes her act on the road — a very long road — in this new special. She's in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, performing old favorites as well as songs from her most recent album, "Quiet Nights" — which is an eclectic mix of show tunes, torch songs and classic pop. Fall, 6 PM on BRAVO

Heroes
"Volume Five: Redemption" introduces ringleader Samuel and his mysterious carnival clan, whose motives are murky, to say the least. Elsewhere, a mysterious death pushes Claire into the spotlight, while Angela worries that Nathan will discover his true identity, and an unexpected visitor haunts Matt in "Orientation/Jump, Push, Fall." 7 PM on CICT; 9 PM on KHQ

Little Mosque on the Prairie
In this episode, Yasir is interested in making some more business contacts, so he joins a local men's lodge. Unfortunately for him, these guys have some interests he doesn't share, and he's expected to participate. Up first is a hunting trip — so not his thing. Sheila McCarthy and Sitara Hewitt also star in "Let Prairie Doo Lie." 8 PM on CICT

Charlize Theron has no plans to marry her boyfriend of eight years, Stuart Townsend, until there is marriage equality. The actress told The View: "The institution of marriage feels very one-sided, and I want to live in a country where we all have equal rights." POPEATER.COM

Things are complicated for Avril

COLD FEET? Avril Lavigne and Deryck Whibley, who announced their split on Thursday, seemed like the perfect rock couple. But at the age of 24, Lavigne began to see things differently, sources tell People.

"She married too young and she finally realized that," said a source. "Avril realized she needs her own life and needs to explore things without him."

The couple married in 2006, when Lavigne was 21 — and though it's now over, Lavigne says she's "grateful for our time together, and I am grateful and blessed for our remaining friendship," she wrote on her website.

Another source close to the couple says they were having serious problems for at least six months. But, the source states, the split is "not about Deryck wanting a kid nor is she dating anyone else."

As for rumours that Lavigne got close with oil heir Brandon Davis, the sources said: "There is no romance."

Still, Lavigne was spotted partying in the French Riviera until dawn night after night on Davis' rented yacht, according to a Page Six source:

"She was seen downing shots, drinking booze from the bottle and play-fighting men on the beach ... She wasn't acting like a married woman at all."

Tragedy spurs Nicole to marry?

PUTTING THINGS IN PERSPECTIVE Nicole Richie wants to marry Joel Madden, femalefirst.co.uk reports.

The reality TV star — who has a 20-month-old daughter Harlow and newborn son Sparrow with the rocker — has been deeply affected by the death last month of her ex-fiance Adam (DJ AM) Goldstein, and is keen for her and Madden to commit to one another forever.

A source told National Enquirer magazine: "Nicole has never been in a rush to get married to Joel. She's so happy with him and their little family that she didn't feel the need to change the way things were between them."

"But when Adam died, she freaked out. She realized life is fragile and short. She doesn't want to have any regrets at all, and she does want to be Joel's wife."

Khloe's quickie wedding?

RUSHING THINGS? Though Khloe Kardashian and L.A. Lakers forward Lamar Odom have only been dating for a month, they're already planning their wedding, popeater.com cites several media outlets as reporting.

"Khloe and Lamar want to get married before Lamar has to go away for training, and the (basketball) season starts up (this fall). They are hoping to pull together a wedding within the next two weeks so they can get married and have time for a honeymoon," the source said.

"They haven't decided where they will say 'I Do,' but they are scouting out numerous locations, including Khloe's family home in Calabasas, (Calif)," the source continued.

E! News reported Thursday night that Khloe, 25, and her basketball beau, 29, have recently been "talking about rings."

Jessica gives up hunt for Daisy

HOPELESS Jessica Simpson is still looking for her pooch Daisy — who was snatched from her backyard by a coyote last Monday — even though she has a "pretty strong feeling" she won't be found, usmagazine.com reports.

A rep for findtoto.com — which called 1,000 of the singer's neighbours to help find the five-year-old muttipoo earlier this week — tells usmagazine.com they've called off the search.

"We've actually discontinued the search entirely," the company's spokeswoman, Colleen Busch, told Us. "We've contacted Jessica and asked them if they want us to put out more Findtoto alerts, and they don't."

Busch said Simpson and her friends are "trying to be positive but they just have a pretty strong feeling she isn't going to be found. We just didn't get any leads."

On Wednesday, Simpson posted that she was "still holding out hope" of finding her pup — a gift from ex-husband Nick Lachey — even though celeb dog trainer Jennifer McCarthy told Us "she's probably not alive."

Even Martha Stewart has some advice for Simpson. She told Us that Simpson "should have watched it more closely," and advised her to "get another dog."

Taylor to pen Kanye diss?

GETTING EVEN Could Taylor Swift write a song about Kanye West's VMA ambush? When asked by Ryan Seacrest this morning, the 19-year-old says she might — but not until she's recovered from the incident, usmagazine.com reports.

"Well, I think that in order to write a song about something, I have to have clarity and be completely sure and I'm not there yet," she said on Seacrest's KIIS-FM morning radio show Friday.

It wouldn't be the first time the songwriter drew from her own life experiences. Last year, she released the track, Forever & Always, about her breakup with Joe Jonas.

Her moment at the VMAs also brought her new fans.

"I got flowers from Janet Jackson!" Swift said. "It was the nicest card ever — I took a picture of it! ... Everyone was really sweet to me this week."

- 2 to 4 garlic cloves, minced
- 2 tbsp (25 ml) canola oil, divided
- 4 chicken drumsticks
- 4 chicken thighs
- 1/4 cup (50 ml) packed brown sugar
- 1 tsp (5 ml) salt
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) minced fresh rosemary or 1 tsp (5 ml) dried rosemary, crushed
- 1 can sliced peaches, undrained

METHOD:

1. Cut squash in half lengthwise; discard seeds. Cut each half widthwise into 1/2-in. (1 cm) slices; discard ends. Place slices in an ungreased 13-in. x 9-in. x 2-in. (33 cm x 23 cm x

- 5 cm) baking dish. Sprinkle with garlic and drizzle with 1 tbsp (15 ml) oil.
2. In a large skillet, brown chicken in remaining oil. Arrange chicken over squash. Combine brown sugar, salt and rosemary; sprinkle over chicken. Bake, uncovered, at 350°F (180°C) 45 minutes, basting with pan juices twice.
3. Pour peaches over chicken and squash. Bake, uncovered, 15 minutes longer or until chicken juices run clear and peaches are heated through.

ARIES
MARCH 21-APRIL 20
Have you learned from recent mistakes? Or are you one of those Aries who believes they can do no wrong?

TAURUS
APRIL 21-MAY 21
You have been at your most dynamic in recent weeks, but the Sun's change of signs tomorrow will bring up concerns you thought had been conquered.

LIBRA
SEPT 23-OCT 23
A new solar year begins for you tomorrow and what that means, more than anything else, is that you can and must let go of the past.

SCORPIO
OCT 24-NOV 22
On one level today you will be outgoing, but on another you'll be asking yourself questions that no amount of socializing or partying can ever answer.

GEMINI
MAY 22-JUNE 21
There is nothing that can stop you from reaching your goals. Believe in yourself and be ready to take risks.

SAGITTARIUS
NOV 23-DEC 21
You need to take a more relaxed view of friendships, both at home and at work. Treat others as equals.

CANCER
JUNE 22-JULY 22
Cosmic activity in and around one of the more sensitive areas of your chart may make you a bit distrustful over the next few days.

CAPRICORN
DEC 22-JAN 20
Your voice will carry more authority and people will be more likely to listen to you over the course of the coming week.

LEO
JULY 23-AUG 23
Why are you thinking so much about past mistakes? The only thing that matters, today and every day from now on, is the future.

AQUARIUS
JAN 21-FEB 18
Venus, planet of love, aspects both Mars and Pluto today, so passions will be running high. Don't fear your feelings.

VIRGO
AUG 24-SEPT 22
It is time to turn your attention to matters of a worldly nature. You are well aware of the value of money so find ways to get more of the stuff.

PISCES
FEB 19-MARCH 20
If you have not thought much about your long-term financial prospects in recent weeks this might be a good time to start.
